

Clow v. Webber Hospital Association (Maine Super. Ct.)

Topics Covered: Hospitals

Outcome: Very Unfavorable

The Maine Board of Osteopathic Licensure investigated an anonymous complaint against Dr. Clow, an osteopathic physician. The Licensure Board subpoenaed the records of a peer review conducted at Dr. Clow's hospital, Webber Hospital. Webber agreed to turn over these records, but Dr. Clow sought a court order to prevent the disclosure. The Maine Medical Association and the Litigation Center filed an amicus brief to support Dr. Clow.

The court held against Dr. Clow and found that Webber Hospital could turn over its records to the Licensure Board.
